The government ministry - renamed from the Ministry of Energy in February to reflect a wider remit - said yesterday (2 May) The Israeli Ministry of Energy and Infrastructure has announced four large-scale battery storage projects to drive the country to deploy more energy storage. The four plants will be built close to an existing national power transmission line in a region close to industrial areas, including some As of most recent estimates, the cost of a BESS by MW is between $200,000 and $450,000, varying by location, system size, and market conditions. This translates to around $200 - $450 per kWh, though in some markets, prices have dropped as low as $150 per kWh. Key Factors Influencing BESS Prices This project, located in Israel, involves the deployment of a 2.5MW/6.8MWh grid-side Battery Energy Storage System (BESS) aimed at optimizing energy consumption and enabling arbitrage services. The system integrates with a 2 MW photovoltaic (PV) array and a 1 MW factory load. System Configuration: The contract for supplying an unspecified "several hundred MWh" of DC-coupled or AC-coupled battery energy storage system (BESS) technologies was signed at the Energy Storage Summit EU, hosted in London last week by our publisher Solar Media.
